

EVOLVING MODELS OF TRUST FOR DATA SHARING |

With the increase in the amount of data being shared on connected platforms and being used to drive intelligent automation for improved outcomes, how are organizations re-thinking compliance and leveraging trust with their clinicians, patients, and boards to differentiate their brand? This session will focus on the following questions:

- How are data experts in healthcare challenging themselves to think differently about data?
- How are healthcare organizations evolving functions and focus in a changing data environment?
- What are the new parameters for defining and refining the data to share?
- How do we foster trust through sharing meaningful, timely data (for clinicians and patients)?
